BY EDITOR

Dear Colleagues...

I am pleased to present you with the third volume- first issue of the journal of Review of Socio-Economic Perspectives (RSEP). The journal has been completed two and a half years with this issue. In the process, the journal continuing its publishing life with confidence is keeping its resolution and ambition for the future issues.

This issue consists of six articles including wide range of subjects. The first of them is relating to the building human capital via migration . The second is the evaluation about perceptions of bank financing constraints differ among characteristics of SMEs, with example of Turkey. The third is regarding wages and happier upper classes. The fourth, considering the effects of commodity price levels and volatility on growth in a leading commodity export framework. The fifth discusses the natural resource curse with the socioeconomical and sociopolitical analysis. The sixth, on basis of executive managers, argues on measuring value creation for business development.

I would like to thank all authors, the members of editorial board and reviewers for their valuable contributions in publishing this issue. I also would like to invite you to participate in RSEP as author, a reader, reviewer and to help inform your friends, colleagues and circles about this journal.

I sincerely hope that you will enjoy and benefit from reading this publication.
